COLEY & PUNCH FLIGHTS

Bar Staff prepare the cabin for takeoff. At this time we ask all electronic and transmitting devices are turned off or set to 'airplane' mode. Glassware will be placed on the tray provided in front of you. Please take the glass holding it firmly and placing up to the face, allow oxygen and whisky aroma to pass freely from the glass to the nose.

Drink calmly allowing the whisky to pass to your mouth and throat in a safe and enjoyable manner. Savour and enjoy the warmth, you're on a whisky flight.

PRODUCT (Flights are 15ml pours)

SILENT STILLs

In the 1800s, there were more than 200 distilleries in Scotland, but by 1945 the poor economic and political circumstances of the previous three decades had taken their toll, and around 70 of these had closed. After the war, sales of whisky increased virtually every year until 1980, but for the next few years, sales dropped dramatically, leaving a whisky surplus and, inevitably, this led to the closure of many more distilleries by 1984. Today there are 109 operating distilleries in Scotland.
